

PÉPÉ SMIT – FRED, THE STUBBORN DEER

3+ picture book

Fred the deer wonders why he lives in a forest. And what is this nonsense that he doesn't wear shoes or has any hands? Fred makes no secret of what he wants. He will not be drawn and thrown into a story. He's far too stubborn for that!

First book by acclaimed Dutch artist Pépé Smit, her second picture book, Pluis has had it, was published Spring 2014, and the second book about Fred: Fred can't sleep was published Spring 2015.

HERMINE LANDVREUGD & SHAMROCK

KALLE & THE PIG FROM SPACE

KALLE & THE KILLER CACTUS

KALLE & THE JUNGLE GOLD

Kalle is a young boy who one night hears a strange sound on the balcony of his bedroom. He takes a look and discovers a small pig. A bit of an evil pig that claims to come from another planet and commands an army of space pigs about to attack the Earth! Kalle is determined to save the earth and eventually succeeds after a roller-coaster of adventures...

In the second book, Kalle is on holiday in Texas and meets an escaped convict who has been sentenced to 465 years in prison. Kalle believes he's innocent and helps him escape to Mexico in a trash container, pulled by a revved up lawn mower!

The third book pictures Kalle with his mother and sister on holiday in Suriname, and Kalle meets a dangerous snake and an old friend on an exciting jungle trip, turning in a bigger adventure than he asked for...

All three books were very well received, especially by boy readers aged 8 – 10 years and have edgy, cartoon-like illustration by artist and designer Shamrock.

ROBERT WOLFE – GLITS

8+ fiction

It's a mystery to the National Security Service. They have arrested a mysterious creature. No one can communicate with it, no one knows where it comes from and it doesn't eat anything much. Is it human? After consulting scientists NSS decides to spread the weird sounds of this creature on the internet. Some teens, including Jay, understand every word it's saying. They call the enigmatic figure a glits. Something that shouldn't be there, but still is...

Robert Wolfe was born in Sydney in 1967 and lived in England and Scotland before moving to Holland as an eight-year old. He studied Business and International Relations, travelled around the world and worked in London and Poland. Back in Australia he obtained his private pilot license and in 1999 he returned to the Netherlands where he currently works as a trainer and a coach. Joshua Joshua Tango was his surprising debut about the unusual friendship between and insecure 8 year old boy and a turtle.
